COLOMA TRAGEDY!

Yesterday a dispute arose between John Kamerer, aged 60, and Henry Kamerer, his son, aged 30. The two led quarrelsome lives together and were addicted to the use of strong drink.

After dinner yesterday the son decided to plow a certain piece of ground but the father objected and very hot and threatening words followed. The middle of the afternoon young Kamerer returned to the house and poured two shots from a Winchester rifle into the body of his father and then turned the instrument of death upon himself and fired the third time. Both are dead.

AND THEN COMMITS SUICIDE.

They Had Been Drinking and Had Quarreled.

Murderer Tried to Cover the Crime of Suicide by Cremating His Own Body.

The Murderer Was Buried Today, the Murdered Will Have a More Honorable Funeral Tomorrow.

Coloma, Nov. 19.—Two and one-half miles southwest of this village, calm and silent in death, lie two men, father and son, who in life found the family relation too uncongenial for their fiery tempers and quarrelsome dispositions. They came to their deaths Thursday afternoon at nearly three o'clock when Harry Kamerer, aged about 30 years, shot and mortally wounded his father, John Kamerer, after which the murderer turned the same weapon upon himself and sent his own soul into eternity. To the latter death came instantly, it is believed.

The two men quarreled almost daily and the double murder was the result of unloosed temper, aided by overindulgence in alcoholic stimulants. How the last quarrel commenced, or what caused it, is not known at this hour. Both men were in the house and the son soon hurriedly left and entered the summer kitchen, an outbuilding standing but a few feet from the residence proper. In this structure he kept his guns, and, grabbing a large Winchester rifle, started to return to the scene of trouble.

When he returned to the house he found the doors locked against him, and this undoubtedly increased his rage. Going to a near window the son caught sight of his father and, raising the weapon, fired twice. One bullet entered the aged man's side, under the arm, and passed entirely through his body; the other struck him in the intestinal region, inflicting ugly wounds.

Henry returned to the kitchen after the horrible butchery and the next act in the bloody event is so far a mystery. Neighbors heard the firing and hastened to the scene; they found the old man dead and the summer kitchen on fire and rapidly burning. Efforts were made to extinguish the flames but the work proved ineffectual. Almost accidentally the body of Henry was discovered lying on the floor, and was dragged out into the open air. He was badly burned and it was discovered that he had turned the rifle upon himself, as an ugly bullet-hole testified.

Whether before shooting himself he had purposely set fire to the building, intending to cremate his body, or whether that feature was accidental is a question which remains to be solved. But for the fortunate discovery the young man's body would have been consumed in the flames of the burning building.

Physicians from this village were hastily summoned to the bedside of the father and his injuries were pronounced at once to be such that recovery was practically impossible. He lingered in life until eight o'clock last night, when death ended his suffering.

John and Henry Kamerer were, as above stated, unfortunate in their family relations. Both were in the habit of drinking to excess, and when in their cups trouble was constantly brewing.

It was on Monday of this week that the father determined to seek the law's protection against the son's brutality. Meeting Deputy Sheriff Umphrey he inquired of whom a warrant could be obtained. Postmaster and Justice Miller was suggested and the old man said as soon as the son commenced his plowing on that day or the day following the paper should be secured. He added that Mr. Umphrey would be asked to serve the warrant.

The family is in well-to-do circumstances. Mr. Kamerer, sr., leaves a wife and six children and they have the sincere sympathy and support of all who know them in this awful crisis.

The family was originally composed of the husband, wife and eight children. One child died some years ago.

The murderer of yesterday will be buried today and the father's funeral is set for Saturday.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Trouble Was the Boy Wanted to Plow and His Father Objected.

Coloma, Nov. 19.—The Courier in an early edition this morning gave this version of the tragedy: Henry Kamerer shot and fatally wounded his father, John Kamerer, at the family home on Boyer street, south of this village, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, set fire to a tool-house, and discharged the contents of a shotgun into his own breast, falling forward into the flames a corpse.

The trouble culminating in such an awful tragedy has been of long standing, cropping out at frequent intervals in rebellious acts on the part of the son, and recently intensified by the failure of the two to agree in regard to the work on the place, which Henry was not performing as the father desired. A controversy arose at the dinner hour, the son going to the field to do some plowing contrary to his father's wishes, and the latter went to the field, ordered his son to stop, and returned to the house. Henry followed, coming around to the rear of the house which the old gentleman had entered (his aged wife immediately closing and bolting the door), seized a 38-calibre Winchester repeating rifle from the tool-house, and as his father passed the kitchen window the son fired twice through it, one ball striking him near the pit of the stomach and glancing out along the ribs, the other entering the abdomen immediately below the navel inflicting a wound which Drs. Stevens and Marvin, who were hastily summoned, pronounced fatal.

The son is then believed to have entered the tool-house, set it on fire and committed suicide. Felix Whetstone, a son of Mrs. Kamerer's by a former husband, gave the alarm, and neighbors hurried to the scene. The half-charred body of young Kamerer was dragged from the burning building and left lying upon its face in the yard covered by a few pieces of rag carpet, a gruesome sight; the flames that had communicated to the dwelling house, threatening it with destruction, were subdued with considerable difficulty, and the old gentleman, who, in spite of his age and physical sufferings had walked out of the house and to the barn across the highway, a distance of several rods, where he was found nearly dead by the doctor, was helped into the house and placed in bed, dying at 8:30 last night. A messenger was hastily dispatched for Justice of the Peace Frank M. Witbeck of Milburg, who impelled a jury which found a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

It is the most shocking affair of the kind transpiring in this vicinity in many years, and the surviving members of the family have the deepest sympathy of the community for this awful crime of an unnatural son and brother.

The murdered man was a brother of Conrad Kamerer, of St. Joseph. Mr. Kamerer today said: "The two men never got along well together. They have both quarreled ever since Henry became of age. Both had ungovernable tempers and have had bitter quarrels over the most trivial matters."

A SEA SECRET.

BY C. B. LEWIS.

In the year 1849 the Hon. East India company's ship the Star of India set sail from Madras for London, having on board over 200 passengers, and among them Lord Glenham, General Swift, Lady Artwell and her two daughters, and other men and women of note at home and abroad. Aside from her general cargo, the ship carried treasure to the amount of $250,000. The bankers at Madras figured out that the passengers must have had at least $100,000 among them, while an Indian potentate, on his way to be received as a guest of royalty, had a strong box of jewelry and gems valued at so great a sum that no one dared speak of it. It was intended that the ship should be conveyed as far as the Cape of Good Hope by a man-of-war, as there were plenty of pirate craft still afloat, but the government vessel met with a mishap at sea and was detained somewhere, and the Star finally decided to sail without her, and there was little fear but that she could take care of herself. Two days out of Madras she was sighted and reported, but that was the last seen or heard of her until the year 1864.

The loss of the Star made a great sensation for several reasons, and when it was finally concluded that she had been lost various vessels were sent in search of her, and every effort was made to ascertain her fate. In 1856 a Malay sailor who died aboard of an English tea ship told her captain that the Star was attacked and captured by pirates to the south of Ceylon, and that he was one of the men engaged in the attack. He said there were five native crafts, and that they came upon the Star in a calm and carried her by boarding. The ship made a long and stubborn resistance, but was finally captured, and the pirates had suffered such heavy loss that in revenge they killed everybody to the last child. They then looted the ship and scuttled her, and the plunder was subsequently divided on an island in the China sea. Some people believed this story and some said it was absurd. The general idea was that the Star foundered at sea during a heavy gale. The dying statement of the pirate was never fully investigated for some reason. So far as the investigation went it was proved to be a fact. The pirates had long been scattered, many were doubtless dead, and the idea of bringing the gang to justice was given up as impossible.

In the year 1863 I was one of the crew of the English brig Swiftsure, which was making a survey of the islands to the northeast of Madagascar. At the Chagos group, as we were pulling into land one day, with seven men in the boat, we were upset in the surf and only two of us escaped death. My companion was a sailor named Wallace, and while in a half drowned state we were swept along the coast of the island by a current and finally thrown on shore in a bit of a cove. A boat put off from the brig as soon as the disaster was noticed, but only two bodies were recovered. The three others were pulled down by the sharks before the boat got to them. Believing this to have been the sad fate of all five no search was made for the pair of us cast ashore, and before we had recovered from our exhaustion and prepared a signal the brig had departed for another field. The island on which we were cast is one of a group of nine, and the easternmost one of all. It is likely the same today as then, having plenty of fresh water, most of it covered with verdure, and wild fruits, shrimps and shellfish so plentiful that a shipwrecked crew of 20 men could get along there for months. Wallace and I were inclined to look upon the affair as a lark. We erected a hut in the woods, procured fire by rubbing two dry sticks together, and after a thorough exploration of our domain, which was not over two miles across in any direction, we slept, ate and talked, and had a pretty easy time of it.

We had been on the island about three months, when we awoke one morning to find the sea like a sheet of glass and the air as still as death. The sky was overcast, and yet of a coppery color, and the birds on the island appeared to be in great alarm. Great flocks of them came in from the sea, and all along shore the fish were leaping out of the water as if it were polluted.

After surveying things for awhile Wallace gave it as his opinion that we were in for a typhoon or an earthquake. The sulphury smell in the air inclined him to the latter, and as soon as we had eaten we started for the center of the island. There was a high hill in the center, bare of everything but a couple of trees and a few bushes, and we sought it on account of the tidal wave we knew would surely follow an earthquake. As to a disturbance of the earth, we were helpless except to keep clear of the forest. It was midday before anything occurred. The menacing look of the sky and the sea increased, and fish by the thousands drove up on the sandy beach to their death. Just about noon, when in a small boat, only the sensation was strangely bewildering and made the head swim.

There was more than one shock, but the first was the most violent and lasted longest. The three or four which succeeded were thrills rather than shocks. They ran through the island from east to west and out to sea, and we heard a chorus of what may be called shrieks of distress from the birds with each vibration. Two or three minutes after the fourth or fifth shock Wallace stood up and looked out upon the sea to the east and shouted to me:

"Look, look, the tidal wave is coming in, and there's a big ship on the crest of it."

I sprang up and followed his gaze. Ten miles away there was a wall of water, which seemed to lift its white crest almost to the sky and to reach north and south as far as I could see. Riding on this crest was a great ship, with her three masts standing erect and some of the yards across. For the first ten seconds the wall seemed to stand still. Then it came rolling on like a railroad train, and almost before I could have counted 20 it struck the shore of our island and swept across it. The island was a good 30 feet above water in every part, while on the hill we were at least 100, but all portions save the hill were covered by at least ten feet. I had my eye on the ship alone. It came straight for the hill, but as the wave divided it was swept to the left and struck the earth and was turned full about. While it hung there the waters passed on, and, lo, at our feet, resting almost on a level keel, was as strange a sight as the eyes of a sailor ever beheld.

It was a ship to be sure, but one had to rub his eyes and look again and again to be certain of it. There was the great hull—there the three masts—up aloft the yards, and there were scores of ropes trailing about like slimy serpents. From stem to stern and from keel to masthead the fabric was covered with mud and slime and barnacle and sea grass and shells, and as she rested there the water poured off her decks and out of her hold in such a sobbing, choking way as to bring the shivers. Not a word had passed between the pair of us while the wave raced in and across the island, and the ground below us was clear of the last water before Wallace said:

"I think this ends it, and let us both thank God! This ship was heaved up from the bottom of the sea, where she must have rested for a good many years, but we'll have to wait a day or two before we investigate."

After a couple of hours, to let the ground dry out a bit, we descended the hill to see what damage had been done. About one-half the trees on the island had been uprooted and carried out to sea, and of our hut not a vestige remained. There was scarcely a stone as large as a hen's egg on the island previous to the wave, but now we found that hundreds of rocks had been distributed around, while the dead fish were so numerous that we were hours in gathering them up and giving them to the tide to bear away. Two hours after the last shock the sky cleared, the sun came out, and by night the island was fairly dry in all parts. We, however, gave the ship all next day to get rid of her water and harden in the hot sun. You are prepared to hear, of course, that she proved to be the long lost Star of India. We found that out before we had been aboard of her a quarter of an hour, and later on we had a dozen reasons for believing that the dying Malay had spoken the truth.

I tell you that ship was a queer sight. Her ocean bed had been hundreds of feet deep, and the mud covered everything to the depth of a foot—in some places two or three. Neither one of us had heard of the Star or her loss, but we knew this wreck to be that of an Indianman, and we went at it to clear away the stuff and get into her. We were a full week doing this, and at every turn we came across evidences to prove the story of the Malay. Three or four of her guns were yet in place, and from the way she had been knocked about by cannon shot it was easy to figure that she had made a hard fight and suffered great loss of life before she gave in. Even before we began work we found the nigger holes bored in her bottom to scuttle her. The great cabin and every stateroom had two feet of mud on the floor, and I may tell you that we worked hard for four weeks before we got the bulk cleaned out.

We made the ship our home for six months and were then taken off by a whaler, and our story was the first news received of the long lost ship. The English government sent a man-of-war to the island to overhaul the hulk, and mementos of her have long been on exhibition in the British museum. Nothing could be more queer than the way we found her, or, rather, the way she was heaved up by the sea to be discovered. From soundings made to the east of the island in 1867-8 it was estimated that the great ship rose from a depth of over 2,000 feet. Nothing but an earthquake could have lifted her from that depth, nothing but a tidal wave held her up and swept her to our feet.

Opposed to Thirteen.

I was buying a parlor car seat for the Atlantic City express when I observed a lady just ahead of me at the window regarding her ticket with a troubled expression. "I won't take that," she said, passing it back to the ticket seller. "I won't have a chair numbered 13." The man smiled amiably, and, taking the ticket, rubbed off the one, making it number 3. "No, that won't do," said the woman. "You must give me a new ticket." "But the chair is number 3," explained the man. "That makes no difference," she replied firmly. "I won't take a ticket that is numbered 13, or that has been number 13." And she wouldn't. What would Mr. Lang say to such superstition as this?—Orin.

THE EVENING NEWS.

THIRD YEAR—NO. 661.

BENTON HARBOR, MICH., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1897.

ONE CENT.

IT WAS AFFECTING.

Scene of the Sentencing of Peter Peterson for Attempting to Murder.

HIS NERVE DID NOT FAIL HIM.

Judge Coolidge Considered the Verdict a Just One—Compliments Attorney V. M. Gore.

The sentencing of Peter Peterson by Judge Coolidge yesterday afternoon was the most impressive incident that has characterized the proceedings of the circuit court since the marriage of Delbert E. Mitten and Miss Mattie Edwards upon the acquittal of the former on the charge of embezzlement after a sensational trial of eight days.

Peter Peterson, convicted of attempting to murder Miss Eliza Harris, stood unflinchingly at the bar and heard Judge Coolidge impose a sentence of eight years at Jackson. There was no moisture in his eyes but there was that in his manner that appealed more forcibly to the sympathies of the 200 spectators than tears might have done. His attitude betrayed a woful ignorance of the significant words of the judge and with his hands folded behind him he was more the picture of a man in deep reverie than a man receiving the punishment of the court for a crime for which he could be placed behind prison walls for life.

Peterson was taken from his cell in the county jail at 3:25 o'clock and escorted to the court room by Turnkey Lynn Ferguson. He walked briskly and smiled several times on his way over. He said to the officer: "This is the last time I will be taken to the court house." Entering the court room he seated himself and to friends who spoke to him he nodded and smiled.

The court was occupied with another case and it was 20 minutes before Judge Coolidge invited Attorney Gore, who so capably defended the accused, to make his plea for clemency. The eloquent words of Mr. Gore sent a shaft of sympathy for the prisoner to every heart. In addition to what appeared in THE NEWS yesterday Mr. Gore urged the court to consider that the prisoner had already endured four months' confinement in the county jail—confinement close and severe and equal to a year in the penitentiary. When Mr. Gore had concluded Judge Coolidge invited the prisoner before the bar.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be imposed upon you?" asked the court.

Peterson looked bewildered. He appeared to not understand the question. Judge Coolidge repeated the query, and Peterson opened his lips to speak, but his utterance was only a groan. The third time the court propounded the question Peterson's silence was broken. He said in an undertone, scarcely above a whisper:

"I ain't got nothing to say."

With Peterson remaining standing in front of his desk, Judge Coolidge complimented Attorney Victor M. Gore for the ability with which he presented the defense. The court stated further that the respondent had been fairly and impartially tried; that his rights had been carefully guarded. His crime was a barbarous one, a crime that shocked the moral sense and excited fear of injury from him. In the opinion of the court the verdict was just and righteous. There was no excuse for the crime. Considering the disparity in the ages of Peterson and Miss Harris it was not strange that the latter should change her attitude, and the discovery that Peterson had deceived her by representations of wealth and concerning his age may have combined to cause the estrangement.

If her parents were to blame it was no reason for him to wreak vengeance on Miss Harris. There was very little evidence, said the court, that went to establish the theory of mental disease. The crime was more the result of jealousy and high passion, the plans for the assault being laid some time before its commission. If it developed that Peterson was mentally afflicted the law hereafter could lend a lenient hand. He could be pardoned and the court would hasten to have the board of pardons so deal with him if insanity was evident.

The testimony of Drs. Tutton and Bell was referred to as indicating that the prisoner was sane and the judge advanced that he therefore ought not to be expected to deal leniently with him. If liberated there was a possibility of the prisoner killing Miss Harris and the entire Harris family. The opinions of Drs. Tutton and Bell were entitled to great respect, especially the latter whom the court regarded as careful in forming opinions, and when he stated Peterson was sane it was his earnest and conscientious belief. Two of the jurors who convicted Peterson had approached the court and expressed ideas of clemency and the remainder were disposed to permit the court to exercise its own judgment.

stances. I sentence the respondent to eight years in Jackson prison."

Not a muscle in the stalwart form of the condemned man moved. His features remained unchanged until he dropped into a chair when a tremor of excitement shook his frame. He called to Mr. Gore and as the attorney took a chair by him the prisoner began talking excitedly. He has grown fond of the man who fought so gallantly to win him his liberty and he affectionately placed his arm about the attorney's neck as he whispered his mind to him. He implored of Mr. Gore that he be permitted to see him once more before he was taken away and the attorney promised to grant him his wish.

Peterson was then taken back to jail and in an interview with a NEWS reporter stated that he did not expect to receive more than two years. "I would like to see Eliza before I go," he said sadly, "but I can't."

Peterson will leave for Jackson at 4 o'clock this afternoon over the Milwaukee, Benton Harbor & Columbus in the company of Sheriff Ferguson.

BUCHANAN.

He Got the Contract to Build the Seventh Street Sewer.

The board of public works held a meeting last night and awarded the contract for the construction of the Seventh street sewer to Martin Buchanan for $150.

The work must be completed within 30 days. The sewer is 500 feet long.

IN A ROW.

Phoenix Insurance Society Has a Scrap at Jackson.

The meeting of the Mutual Benefit Underwriters' association at Jackson, which was attended by L. O. Chatfield, Clarence Warner, S. M. White and F. M. Van Horn, representing the Phoenix Accident & Sick Benefit association, of this city, broke up at 10 o'clock yesterday in a row. The argument became so fierce that at one time it promised to result in personal violence.

The row was caused by an attempt of seven other companies to place riders on the policies of the Phoenix, which policies are considered too liberal for the health of other societies, and this attempted to be the withdrawal of the Phoenix from the state association. The evident purpose of the other companies was to freeze the Phoenix out of business, but the attempt resulted in a miserable failure.

Resolutions intended to make it a prerogative of each association to black list agents who left their employ were introduced and these were bitterly fought by the representatives of the Phoenix society who maintained that such legislation was unfair and dishonorable. Messrs. Chatfield and White returned from Jackson this morning. Mr. Warner stopped off at Battle Creek and Mr. Van Horn is still in Jackson.

There is no probability of an attempt being made to reorganize the state association.

DIPHTHERIA.

Son of Janitor Slenker of Morton School is Afflicted.

The seven-year-old son of Fred Slenker, janitor of the Morton school building, is stricken with diphtheria. The case was reported to Health Officer Tutton this morning. The health officer immediately placed the home under quarantine and notified the board of education which body ordered Slenker to cease his duties as janitor at once.

It is not thought likely that any of the school children have been exposed. The patient is afflicted with the disease in its most virulent form and it is believed he will not recover.

PRAISE FOR INFIDELS.

Albert Yendes Believes They Are the Noblest of the Race.

Albert Yendes, the best posted agnostic in the county, has repeatedly sent letters to THE NEWS on his favorite theme and they have been repeatedly rejected. He cannot understand why a newspaper should give so much space to churches and sermons while it has no room to print the doctrines of infidels, and all the while the paper makes pretensions to all fairness. There are many people who thus falsely reason. Newspapers strive to print the news. A sermon is as much a matter of news, when it advances new ideas, as anything that occurs. The private personal opinion of any minister in regard to the special advantages of his particular creed is not a matter of public interest, and scarcely if ever does a newspaper print anything of the sort. If Bob Ingersoll should lecture here this paper would give him as complete a report as it would Talmage, Collyer, Thomas, Henson or any of the high ecclesiastics in any of the churches. If Mr. Yendes holds public meetings his addresses will be matters of public concern and THE NEWS would report him.

The following is a sample of Mr. Yendes' letters that THE NEWS has refused to publish on the ground that they did not come under the broad title of news and were more calculated to stir up a tiresome controversy and result in no good:

"Infidels have been the brave and thoughtful men, the flower of the world, the pioneers and heralds of the blessed day of liberty and love, the generous spirits of the unworthy past, the seers and prophets of our race, the great chivalric souls, proud victors on the battlefield of thought, the creditors of all the years to be, the noblest sons of earth. Who at the present day can imagine the courage, the devotion to principle, the intellectual and moral grandeur once required to be an infidel—to brave the church, her racks, her fagots, her dungeons, her tongues of fire, to defy and scorn her heaven and her hell, her devil and her God."

TO THE PUBLIC.

As a stranger soliciting a share of your patronage it is but just to you and to myself that I make some mention of my fitness for the work I would undertake. I come of a medical family, my father, brother and many relatives being physicians. I have attended and hold credentials from leading homoeopathic and allopathic medical colleges. For eighteen years I have successfully conducted a large practice. I have held high office in State and National medical societies, and received honorary professional recognition from abroad. I have had considerable hospital experience, am something of a medical writer and author, and have been professor in reputable medical colleges.

These frank statements can be easily verified. If they commend me to your confidence it will give me pleasure to professionally advise and assist healthward all who need and desire my services.

I am prepared to and will practice all branches of medicine and surgery, but because of special research, experience and success in this direction, greatly prefer and particularly invite those suffering from obscure, complicated, delicate, and all chronic or lingering diseases to consult me. Obsolete cases that others have failed to cure are solicited.

My office is at 112 East Main street, one door east of the postoffice. Benton Harbor. Respectfully, C. EDSON COVEY, M. D. 261619

Popular With all Classes.

Magnolia Blossom is the most popular female remedy of the day because it is not expensive and is within the reach of all classes. Scores of women say that a dollar box has benefited them more than fifty dollars spent for other remedies, and in many cases a single box has effected a cure for those who had doctored for years without obtaining relief; it enables women to treat themselves privately in their own homes, and is a simple and speedy cure for all the distressing ailments peculiar to women. Sold by all druggists.

Our 5th Christmas...

As we approach our 5th Christmas in Benton Harbor we wish to thank our many patrons for their appreciation of our efforts in the last four years. We try to merit and we study to please. If we have any critics remember that "by-standers" often see good moves on the checker board of other players, but seldom even reach the "King Row" when they play themselves. We have "distanced" every competitor in Southwestern Michigan. Not only coming under the "wire" ahead, but having time to put our horse in the barn before the others reach the last quarter-mile post. But this Christmas will show a larger, finer and better assortment than ever before. Sensible, useful presents, no nonsense in our line. Goods are now coming in fast. Do not delay until the assortment is broken.

SENTENCE OF PETERSON.

In making the sentence of Peter Peterson, the love-razed man who attempted to kill his sweetheart because she refused to become his wife, eight years, Judge Coolidge apprehended that public censure would be aroused against the length of the sentence. The judge, however, explained that if it was shown that Peterson really is insane it would be an easy task to secure his pardon and have him transferred to an asylum.

At the time of the trial public sympathy was largely with Peterson because it was shown by the testimony that his affections had been trifled with. The shot he fired did not take effect. His crime was an intent to do the crime of murder. But as the court explained, with a short sentence the man would soon be back and quite likely might murder Miss Harris and her entire family.

It appears that no injustice has been done the prisoner by the law. If he, a simple lover, was trifled with, the law is not to blame. Eight years in prison is none too short for such a man to bury and forget his love, and even then he may come out to liberty its yielding slave.

The whole sad story shows the dangers that follow trifling with the affections of men as well as women.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

While there are a good many reasons in favor of postal savings banks there are also good reasons why the government should not engage in such an undertaking.

A very serious objection is that it would make more jobs to be given out as a reward to partisans and that politicians and political organs would have more officers to assess.

The government cannot run a bank as economically as an individual can. A little comparison of local conditions shows this. The position of postmaster can be filled by anyone of common sense and common business ability who never saw the inside of a post-office or bought a money order. The position pays $2,200. The two agents of the two railroad companies here receive together about the same salary as the postmaster. Only by years of experience and training can the position of railroad agent in a city of this importance, while a new greenhorn could be appointed postmaster every month and the service would suffer no ill effects.

Postal savings banks would make more fat offices and consequently increase the partisan spirit at the expense of patriotism.

A RECENT decision of the supreme court will interest all lawyers. John T. McCurdy, of Corunna, assisted in the criminal prosecution of one of the agents of the New York Life insurance company. He sued the company for his services and in the circuit court secured a judgment of $77. The supreme court reversed the case on the ground that it is not good policy for an attorney not employed by the people to assist in circuit court prosecutions.

THE recent cut in insurance rates will save Michigan about $400,000 per year, which has heretofore been carried out of the state. The commissioner of insurance who accomplished the reduction has easily earned his salary, and is a boom to the Pingree administration.

SENATOR Hanna does not believe in the prevalent evil—substitution. He thinks M. A. H. is the proper man for senator and will not listen to taking some other republican "equally as good." When people call for certain brands of goods they should act like Mr. Hanna.

Hanna Says It's Over.

New York, Nov. 19.—Senator Hanna of Ohio was asked as to the situation in Ohio. He replied: "Why, the fight in Ohio is over." Asked as to the attitude of Governor Bushnell and Senator Horaker in the recent contest he said: "Oh, I can't say anything about that. It would be very bad taste." Senator Hanna expects to return to Ohio next Sunday.

CAPT. WILKINSON.

He Died Yesterday Afternoon at the Age of 70.

Capt. Wilkinson, of St. Joseph, a veteran lake captain, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, Charles Roberts, of the life saving crew, who resides across the river near the station.

He leaves three sons and a daughter. Yesterday afternoon he was out doors gathering kindling wood. He walked into the house and lay down, dying a few minutes afterward.

PRACTICAL JOKER KILLED.

Young Michigan Man Is Shot by His Best Friend by Mistake.

Lansing, Nov. 19.—A tragedy occurred at Meridian station, a few miles from Lansing, Wednesday night.

George Hart, a farmer 24 years of age, played a practical joke on a family named Burgess. He attired himself in cowboy style, wearing a mask, and pistols in his belt, and appeared at the windows of the Burgess homestead, flourishing his weapons and demanding admittance. John Burgess, aged 19, the only male in the house at the time, not recognizing the intruder and thinking he meant to murder him, seized a shotgun and fired it squarely in Hart's face, killing him almost instantly. He and Burgess were the best of friends. No blame is attached to the latter.

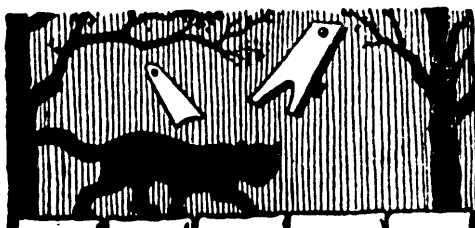

A FLOATER.

Body Washed Ashore Near Sawyer Yesterday.

The body of an aged, well dressed man, was washed on the beach of Lake Michigan near Sawyer yesterday. There was nothing on the man's person by which he could be identified and he was buried today without his identity becoming known.

His clothes contained two silver dollars, one paper dollar, two pennies, a pocket knife, one comb, two pairs of spectacles and a pocket book. The right leg had been amputated just below the thigh. His whiskers were grey and his appearance denoted that he was upwards of 70 years old.

He had evidently been in the water about two weeks. It is supposed that he drifted in from the north.

The Home of a Genius.

Beethoven was born in a small house in Bonn. His father had inherited the vice of drinking, and often Beethoven and his younger brother were obliged to take their intoxicated father home. He was never known to utter an unkind word about the man who had made his youth so unhappy, and he never failed to resent it when a third person spoke uncharitably of his father's frailty.

Young Beethoven was thus taught many a severe lesson in the hard school of adversity. But his trials were not without advantage to him. They gave to his character that iron texture which upheld him under his heaviest burdens.

The Process of Elimination.

"I have just seen the man you are looking for," said the excited citizen to the detective.

"Where?"

"In the suburb where I reside."

"I am much obliged to you," replied the detective as he took out a map and crossed off a space on it.

"Are you not going to send a man out there?"

"There would be no use of that. He is too smart to stay in the same place long. Still, your information helps some. It points out a spot where we can be pretty sure the criminal is not."—Washington Star.

Men Are Growing Bigger.

Recent athletic records show that our young men are surpassing their predecessors in nearly every line of muscular performance. It has been demonstrated, moreover, that the average American man has become taller by at least one inch within the last two generations, and that, compared with his European contemporaries, he has been steadily growing larger of limb, weightier in the scale, and, most significant of all, longer lived.—New York World.

WEYLER A THIEF ALSO

Besides His Butchery He Robbed
the Spanish Government
With a High Hand.

HIS TROCHAS COST $250,000.

And Yet the Madrid Government
Was Assessed $2,000,000 for Their Construction.

A Havana correspondent of the New York Journal writes: In the audit of accounts following Weyler's departure his corrupt administration has come to light, though the authorities are strenuously trying to keep defalcations in various departments secret. The various sums said to have been expended on making and maintaining trochas is over $2,000,000, while reliable experts estimate that the real cost should have been $250,000.

In the sanitary administration there are several deficits, including the sum of $300,000 in the accounts of medicine supplied and paid for by various battalions. A commadante is in the Cabanas prison charged with pocketing the remittances for the drugs supplied. Gen. Baryan before leaving for Spain received his full pay in gold; on the same ship there were several invalid soldiers, whose allowance, in depreciated paper money, was months in arrears. This, of course, they will never get.

Colonel Escribano, Weyler's chief of staff, had his private account transferred from Havana. When he left last week it stood at $327,400, yet he was not here long. The cashier of the Guipuzcoa battalion, Lavante Suarax Helvero, has joined the insurgents after striking his superior officer. His accounts are $36,530 short. It is small wonder that Weyler's departure and the day of reckoning was so greatly dreaded by all his gang.

General Blanco has received 221 applications from officers to be transferred again to Spain. These tell their own story. The chances for fattening on their soldiers' allowances are ended and Cuba has no more charms. They have been sharply reminded, however, that their duty is to remain here and fight for Spain, and a special order has been issued on the subject.

BLUFF CITY BURNS.

On Monday the Steamer, Worth, was destroyed at Chester, Tenn., by fire, Nov. 10. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

on the lower Mississippi, which left here on Wednesday, bound for New Orleans with forty passengers and 1,000 tons of miscellaneous freight on board, was burned to the water's edge at Chester, Ill., seventy-five miles below here yesterday.

All the passengers and the crew escaped to land without injury, but nothing on board was saved. The loss, which is total, will aggregate $100,000. A number of valuable race horses, that were being taken to New Orleans for the races there, were burned up on board the boat.

ANTI-PINGREE MEN.

Only Matters of the Governor Get Federal Jobs.

Lansing, Nov. 19.—It is said that at the conference between Senators Mc-Millan and Burrows in Detroit, in addition to the appointments for the federal offices in the eastern district of Michigan the senators practically decided upon two of the plums for Western Michigan.

It is said that Senator Covell of Traverse City has been decided upon for district attorney and Frank Watkins of Allegan for marshal. Senator Covell won distinction in the last legislature as being the most bitter anti-Pingreeite of them all and Mr.
Watkins is a brother of Charles W.
Watkins of Grand Rapids.

This is only a continuance of the policy of the federal forces in recognizing the anti-Pingreeites. Hon. L. G.
Palmer of Big Rapids, one of the best attorneys the district ever had, was a favored candidate for his old place, but he was not anti-Pingree enough. Representative Chamberlain of Gogebic was pretty much anti-Pingree during the session but hardly enough so, and so he is thrown down, also.

It is said that ex-Senator Jaimson of Grand Rapids is slated to be Covell's assistant. He voted for Burrows in the senate, and has since been doing some energetic flitting with the governor, but the Burrows people have understood where he has been at all the time.

ANOTHER PETERSON.

Shot at His Sweetheart but She Will Live.

Grand Rapids, Nov. 19.—Edward E.
Vanev, a blacksmith at Bear Creek, twelve miles north, Wednesday night shot his sweetheart, Nellie Skitman, and her brother Albert, but both will live. Miss Skitman kept house for her brother, who is a farmer. Vanev and Miss Skitman had been engaged but last week Nellie notified her lover that the engagement was off. Wednesday Vanev came to Grand Rapids, bought a bulldog revolver, then drove straight to Skitman's for a settlement. He ordered Albert to leave him alone with Nellie and when Albert refused fired at him, the bullet striking him in the side. As Nellie ran from the room Vanev shot her.

CAN'T TAX TERMINAL.

Supreme Court Makes an Important Railroad Ruling.

Lansing, Nov. 19.—In a decision the supreme court appears to have ruled against taxing the terminal property of railroads. The Flint & Pere Marquette appealed from the order of Circuit Judge Maxwell, of Bay City, overrul-ing its objections to taxes assessed against it for state, county and city purposes for 1894.

The objections to the tax were that the property assessed is a part of the terminal and depot grounds at Bay City. It was shown that in 1894, 18,000 cars of freight were shipped therefrom.
The opinion cites the general tax law,
providing that payment of specific tax shall exempt the property of such corporations from further taxes.

It appeared that two lumber firms occupied part of the dock at the terminal, but as they paid no rent and their occupancy was a convenience to the railroad in shipping the firms' lumber, this fact was held to have no bearing on the liability of the company to pay general taxes.

Judge Maxwell's decree was reversed, and the auditor-general was directed to draw his warrant on the state treasury for the company's costs in the case.

Fels are becoming so numerous in the Grand river that they interfere with the mill privileges along the stream and will soon put a stop to navigation.
The truthful mill owners, along the river, claim that the fels get into the water wheels and stop them. Unless some other peaceful means can be found the owners propose to blast them out of the river with dynamite.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Louise Meech of

The case of Frank J. Smith against Dr. W. H. Smith is being heard today in the circuit court. The action is one brought to recover $40 for services as hostler in which capacity the plaintiff served the doctor at Niles. Miss Mindie Blodgett, bookkeeper for the defendant, testified that the plaintiff was negligent in his duties, that often the witness was compelled to build the fire in the furnace. Miss Smith, daughter of the doctor, also had the same complaint to make against the plaintiff. Theodore G. Beaver appears for the plaintiff and George A. Lambert for the defendant.

Upon the urgent solicitation of the defendant the case of Frederick Monahan against Henry S. William was postponed this morning upon the payment of $110 by the defendant. The case was ordered to be tried today in the circuit court. A judgment of $107 was obtained by the plaintiff in Justice Graves' court from which the defendant appealed. Attorney A. P. Cady represented the plaintiff and Lawyer Charles N. Sears the defendant.

Greatest Conflagration the Great City Has Seen for Several Years Now Raging.

SEVERAL STREETS ARE AFIRE.

The Flames Have Surrounded the General Postoffice—15 Warehouses Destroyed.

London, Nov. 19.—The most serious fire in several years is now raging.

In several streets adjacent to the general postoffice, huge blocks of buildings are blazing fiercely.

Many houses have collapsed and 15 warehouses have already been destroyed.

The buildings on both sides of the street are ablaze preventing the firemen from reaching the flames.

The fire has extended to within 500 yards of the general postoffice.

A strong northwesterly wind is blowing which tends to carry the flames in the direction of the postoffice and it looks as though the building was doomed.

A serious panic prevails in the district surrounding the burning section.

FASHION HINTS.

Footwear, Vails and Hosiery—Hints About a Red Nose.

Shoes with pointed toes and those with square toes are both worn. The latter are the more desirable for general walking. Children wear heelless shoes with wide toes, which do not cramp the feet in any way.

Vails having large chenille dots are much used; also black vails with applications of white lace. With ceremonious costumes no veil at all is worn.

Black hosiery continues to be preferred above all other. An attempt was made to establish the fashion of having the stockings match the gown, but it has not succeeded, except in so far as regards full evening dress, when the shoes also correspond in color. Even for evening wear, black stockings are often chosen, decorated with embroidery of colored silks.

Some of the so called minor trials of life affect happiness more seriously than do greater ones. Perhaps one of the most annoying of small misfortunes—misfortunes which do not perceptibly influence health, character or financial condition—is the possession of a red nose. Even a man finds this unpleasant, and to a woman it is well nigh intolerable. Redness of the nose is often the result of imperfect circulation, faulty digestion or tight clothing, and when this is the case simple and abundant food, absence of stimulants, plenty of exercise and a costume which does not compress the body will suffice to correct it in a short time. Vegetables and salads should enter largely into the bill of fare, and food should be eaten slowly.

An illustration is given of a long wrap for a middle aged woman. It is of suede velvet and is close fitting at the back, having a capuchon forming coquilles. The front forms a large plait. The cape sleeves are of suede cloth and extend to the front of the skirt. They are trimmed across the upper part by transverse bands of bias velvet, covered with black passementerie. The valois collar of velvet is bordered with black ostrich plumage. JUDIC CHOLLET.
